LOST. HUNTED. CONSPIRACY.

The secret of the manuscript is only the beginning . . . the truth could cost her life.

Though her specialty is Roman collections at the British Museum in London, history expert turned government agent Calla Cress finds herself thrown into a bizarre international case. A code is written in an unbreakable script on an ancient manuscript whose origin is as debatable as the origin of life. Could its decryption lead to a global cyber war?

When the highly guarded document goes missing from a Berlin museum and ends up in her personal belongings with a long-hidden secret concerning her past, Calla is backed into a corner. Forced on a run halfway across the world, Calla is pursued from the underground scene of espionage intelligence into a desperate hunt for truth and survival. Soon she discovers that she's made of tougher stuff than she ever imagined. Her only allies are few but resourceful.

There's: Nash Shields, a handsome yet mysterious National Security Agency (NSA) intelligence analyst. Jack Kleve, a witty technology entrepreneur. The trio is thrown into a sophisticated conspiracy spanning continents and dating back several centuries. The secret of the manuscript is only the beginning . . . The truth could cost them their lives.

From the Author

AUTHOR'S NOTE: TRUTH OR FICTION?

I hope you enjoy this journey across continents and cultures. Many of the settings discussed in The Decrypter: Secret of the Lost Manuscript are places close to my heart, where I have either lived or had the opportunity to visit.

Except for a couple of altered street names like St. Giles Square, each location in the novel is taken from the global map and I hope one day you'll have an opportunity to visit some of them. In the meantime, I endeavor to draw plots from the smells, the sights and the beauty of these places and hope that some of them captured your interest.

Note from Technological & Scientific Record

I am extremely passionate about technology and scientific entrepreneurship and have had the opportunity to work in multinationals that explore the daring, the imaginative, the inventive and the creative. So, I thought I'd spend some time exploring where fact ended and imagination took over.

In the story, Jack Kleve is our tech whiz and in many ways the type of individual you would find presenting at a TED (Technology, Entertainment, Design) conference, a non-profit devoted to Ideas Worth Spreading. Much inspiration for this character came from the amazing talks that are shared here.

Slate Mendes, Mason's hit man experiments significantly with ISTF technological developments. Many ideas grew from some of the army technologies being developed within armies and universities. For example, Slate uses an exaggerated, military cloaking concept similar to one explored by Army Technology, as seen on Net

Resources International.

Note from Paranormal Records

Calla Cress is gifted perhaps more than most, and physically capable of strengths beyond my human capacity. While exploring this character, I questioned if some other abilities were indeed fictional or had science and technology ventured a little further than I had dared imagine. While developing her x-ray vision, I came across a report by the Discovery Channel on a girl with x-ray eyes. Fact or fiction, I leave that one up to you.

Lastly, while researching black diamonds for the story, known as carbonados by some, I was intrigued by their "extraterrestrial" element as some researchers have explored, including NASA. Although their abilities are skewed in this book, are carbonados truly diamonds from outer space? This was all fuel for a fascinating paranormal element. Again, fact or fiction, I leave it up to you.

Note from Historical Record

Except for a couple of altered facts around the mysterious character Merovec, I endeavored to keep accurate each fictionalized, historical record explored in the book, from Alexander the Great, to the history of English Grammar and Priam's Treasure. History continues to fascinate me and casting Calla Cress as museum curator means history will remain part of her adventurous world.

As a storyteller, I find it intriguing to dip into the mysteries of our world and hope that some of those explored in the novel will not only spark your own imagination, but your own curiosity.

See you on the next adventure.

Thank you!

About the Author

MEET ROSE:

Rose never set out to be a writer. She set out to be a communicator with whatever landed in her hands. But soon the keyboard became her best friend. Rose writes suspense and intelligence thrillers where technology and espionage meet history in pulse-racing action adventure. She dips into the mysteries of our world, the fascination of technology breakthroughs, the secrets of history and global intelligence to deliver thrillers that weave suspense, conspiracy and a dash of romantic thrill.

A globe trotter, her thrillers span cities and continents. Rose's writing approach is to hit hard with a good dose of tension and humor. Her characters zip in and out of intelligence and government agencies, dodge enemies in world heritage sites, navigate technology markets and always land in deep trouble.

When not tapping away on a smartphone writing app, Rose is usually found in the British Library scrutinizing the Magna Carta, trolling Churchill's War Rooms or sampling a new gadget. Most times she's in deep conversations with ex-military and secret service intelligence officers, Foreign Service staff or engrossed in a TED talk with a box of popcorn. Hm... she might just learn something that'll be useful.
